“ My condolences to the Griffith family. Its hard to put into words the feelings associated with losing someone we love. There is a most encouraging scripture that helps a great deal as we read of a wonderful promise. Revelation 21:3-5 With that I heard a loud voice from the throne say: “Look! The tent of God is with mankind, and he will reside with them, and they will be his people. And God himself will be with them. And he will wipe out every tear from their eyes, and death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore. The former things have passed away.” And the One seated on the throne said: “Look! I am making all things new.” Also he says: “Write, for these words are faithful and true.”

“ I have visited Dagny for the last 18 months through the Homebound Ministry of 1st Baptist Denton. Each time I went in her room she was sitting in her wheelchair reading her Bible or devotional books. When I began visiting she looked very much like the picture you posted with her blue eyes and precious smile. Even though her hearing was bad, I was able to communicate with her with my white board and and marker. She told me about her daughter and son and that her husband had been a pastor.

I went by last Friday to take her some Christmas goodies and also a birthday card. She was not her usual self, but was able to read the cards aloud to me and thanked me for coming and for praying with her. I treasure that last hug she gave me.

I know she will be missed, but also know you are thankful she is will her husband and heavenly Father and not confined to her wheelchair anymore.

“ This photo with Dagny (with her sweet smile) sitting in her chair by her bed with all of her reading literature all laid out so neat will always be the way that I will remember this lady full of peace and contentment. I am still amazed how she continued to read without glasses. She blessed my life in many ways. Her service was very nice and I know that she would have really enjoyed singing all the songs with us. Now, her smile is bigger, her body is healed and she is in the presence of Jesus whom she loved so much and it truly showed in her life. I am very happy to have had the opportunity to meet and visit with her and to meet her sweet family.
