“ So much has happened since you have been gone, I can't believe it's been almost 5 years. I know you are watching over all of us. Allyssa moved away like she always said she would, twice now first to Iowa and now in Charlotte North Carolina she amazes me the way she takes on the world and keeps her head and moves with such grace I am so proud of her I could bust. Blake is also soaring he just bought his first home and it is beautiful. He and Allyssa did just what we wanted and our succeeded us both by that age!!! Blake does well at work and just took on a new adventure with a new store he is assistant manager on his way to getting his own store. I miss ya Dink I miss getting to talk about the kids I miss hearing about how you are going to retire at the river. I miss getting to tell you about my successes I am a nurse now and have been for two years. I miss getting to watch you beam with pride as our kids take on and succeed in this world. I miss your laugh and your stupid jokes. Yeah you are missed!!!
Have fun until we get to heaven and you can show us all the best places to go. Love you always

“ Hey Dad,

Its been a little over four years since you passed away, and it still doesn't feel real and it doesn't seem fair. Uncle Warren just passed away and I feel just about the same way about that. I was thinking though, maybe y'all could go out on the boat? He could take you skiing. I know ya'll are going to have so much fun together. That being said, you know how hard this stuff is.. I know Aunt Tammy could really use you these days. Keep an eye on her and Aunt Ann okay?

I always told myself I would write to you, but I never knew what to say. I guess I'll just catch you out on the stuff you've missed lately.

Well, for starters, we are in the middle of a pandemic. Not so sure how you'd feel about that, probably about like the rest of us. Who would of thought that in 2020 we would be in a pandemic!?! Crazy times.

I graduated college. Got my degree in finance. I think when you were here I thought I was going to get a degree in economics.. Changed my mind! Finally got my career started, I'm in training to be an Underwriter, and I moved to Iowa! I don't think you'd be too thrilled about me moving, but you knew it was bound to happen eventually. It's good though, the move has been great. The people up here are great, and Iowa is beautiful! Can you believe it?? I never would have expected that.. I also never would have expected to move to Iowa either, but here I am. Well.. for 4 more months at least. Then I'll be moving somewhere else.. Not sure where yet.

I also went on my first solo trip! It was phenomenal. I think it was necessary for me, it was perfect in preparing me for my move to Iowa.

I miss you.. There are so many times that I've wished I could pick up the phone and call you. Or walk into your room and sit on the desk and talk to you about the things that are bothering me. There are SO many things that remind me of you. There are SO many things that have happened that I wish you were here for, and there are so many things that I want you to be here for in the future. I miss your laugh and you're silly jokes. I miss how kind you were and how you were ALWAYS there if I needed you. I miss you calling me on the first day of school saying "ITS A GREAT DAAAY TO BE A MUSTANG" when I could just hear the smile on your face as you were saying it. I miss being able to make you promise to pick up the phone no matter what, and I miss you doing it. I never thought that I would never get to do that again the last time we talked. I am, however glad that you hugged me TIGHT goodbye before I left for Africa. You were so worried something would happen to me... We both were.. I never even thought that something might happen to you.. I think God knew what he was doing when he gave us that hug goodbye though.

I just want you to know that you would be beyond proud of your brother. Uncle Chris (and Sandi) have included us in everything with their family. They invite us to family dinners, vacations, and even their family Christmas. It warms my heart how much they have been there for Blake and me, and I know that it would make you grin ear to ear too. They have been beyond supportive and always present for Blake and I. I just wanted you to know that. They've done more for us than we ever could have asked or imagined. We are SO blessed to have the family that we do.

Grandma says you put a lizard in her shower when she was talking to you one time.. Do that again will ya? She loves that.

We all miss you and love you so much. I hope you're having fun up there in heaven. I know you're back to being healthy and you're finally free to be yourself again. I love you.

-Your daughter, Allyssa.

“ So Saturday we are having Allyssa’s graduation party. A very proud and happy event except that I wish you were there. I know you’ll be there in some way, especially in our hearts but it’s still not the same. I know you’re so proud of her as we all are. Think about you all the time Dink, you’re always always close in my heart. Miss you so much. 💜💙💚💛 Janice

“ I just had another birthday and yours is 12 days after mine, this is first year in a long time that I didn't get to hear you tease me about being " an old lady" you don't know how much I missed that. I think about you every single day, so hard to really comprehend you are gone. We all miss you so much but know you are with other family now and I imagine running around giggling like i remember when we were kids. Tears are pouring down my face but I keep telling myself that everything is good with you, I just miss you so much. Love you forever Dink!

“ I only learned of Dennis passing from us the day after his memorial. I happened to be in Manhattan when his cousin Ann contacted me. I was startled. I've had nothing but respect for Dennis since we met back in 1999 maybe 98'. I'll miss his stories. We didn't talk often, but it seemed like we had just been shooting the bull, 5 minutes ago. His kids and folks were his life. That's a good life! My prayer is comfort for Blake, Alissa, Mr and Mrs Blount. Eric, Becky, Chris and Leigh. Just know Dennis was loved by most he met. We miss him. “ My brother Dennis,

I've been waiting to post, trying to think of the one special memory that either defines us and our relationship, or was worthy of posting on your memory site. Instead, I sit thinking of the kind of person you were. I've read or heard so many things about you over the past few weeks, "loyal to a fault", "He tried to show a tough exterior at times but his humbleness and big heart always overshadowed" "wish the whole world could live by your values and morals", "a true friend". I know these traits, and many more like them to be true. I also know that you are the kind of person that has so many close friends, the kind of friend that people confide in, the kind of friend that would loan other friends money, even at the expense of you not having it, the kind of person that has multiple friends that he talks to every single day, the kind of person that didn't answer his phone on Monday morning, and has 5 different people looking for him and even going to his house before 11am.

What I will remember the most is that I was one of the lucky many that talked to you every single day. That one of us would call the other, and most of the time, not have anything specific to say. Some of our calls seemed urgent, because we had timely information we needed the other one to hear, like, "I just paid $2.90 for gas", " traffic on 35 sucks", or some comment about a lady jogging on our way to work. Many times we really wouldn't talk about anything, but would talk my entire drive to work.

I will remember those calls the most, and I will miss those talks and knowing you were always there.

Your brother, Chris

“ Dennis would try to put up a tough front, but it would instantly melt away once he would see a baby (which was pretty much all of the time in our big family)! I loved watching him interact and love on all of the kids. I'm thankful Blake and Allyssa are here to continue to live out his legacy of kindness and lending a helping hand to anyone and everyone.

Born on his uncle's birthday which happened to be my dad's ,
Dennis had the same kind heart that couldn't say "no" to anyone who needed help. He tried to show a tough exterior at times but his humbleness and big heart always overshadowed it. Thank you Dennis for all you did for so many. You were and still are loved by those whose lives you touched. I love you. Your cousin Johannah*

“ My uncle Dennis was a quiet man and loyal to a fault. He did what he thought was right and would help anyone he could. I'm a proud niece of an honorable man and heaven called a good Angel home. I miss you, and I love you!

“ We have way too many memories to pick just one... My favorite two are the times that I got to tell you that you were going to be a dad! With Blake you had just returned from Alaska with your dad and brothers and with Allyssa you were also out of town when I found out and you used to joke that you were out of town both times I got pregnant 😊 Good thing your kids look just like you haha I miss you more than words can express....

Hey my buddy I'm sitting here on the deck this morning thanking of all the things we've thought together. You are a true friend of mine. I will miss you. Talking to you every morning of the things that had to get done that day so we both feel like we did our job the best we could. And talk on the way home to make sure we got all the things we had planned Done that day. Knowing and teaching you things was so fun and watching you grow to be one of the honest guys and the best dad to both of your kids was great. I know we will meet up with each other again. Thank you for being my friend.

“ One of my favorite's because of his quick wit, was our last lake trip and Tyler and I were walking up to Dink and he started walking towards us asking Tyler if "he gets special pricing at car dealerships!" Tyler has been thru 4 vehicles and he is only 19! We all laughed and it's one I won't forget. Had so many fun times with Dink at the river! He was always making sure my kids had fun. Either he was helping Tyler keep the motorcycle running or helping his friend get the go-Kart out for Lexi. Always making sure Mike and I enjoyed ourselves by allowing us to use his mule whenever we wanted. So many memories, not enough space to share. He holds such a special place in my heart. He will always be missed, and always loved. We love you, Dink.
