“ Unfortunately with a heavy heart i have to say we have another angel taken to soon from our family. Wed they took my brother in law in for emergency surgery and unfortunately he passed away sat morning. My brother in law ralph was a great guy. We use to to have a really close relationship I wish we still had. I met him would be 28 years ago in july same day I met my husband his Lil brother David Williams. Me and Ralph use to stay up late talking about numerous of things. He gave me a nick name when i was pregnant with our son martin speed bump. He would pick on me and call me pickles bc i ate so many pickles bk then lol. He stayed with us for a bit when the kids were lil. I use to cut his hair and i pierced his ear lol when I was going to cosmetology school he was a awesome brother and came and was a model for me let me get my manicure quota by doing his nails. He was a great uncle when my kids were born. He was there with both martin and Kayleigh Shufelt uncle ralph was inseparable with them babysat let KayleighShufelt pull his beard and laugh. He taught Lil martin all u could think of about WWE wwf. Lil martin idolized his uncle ralph. Alot of things happend over the years and our bond didn't hold up as strong as we wished however the love we all hold in our hearts will never fade. My brother in law fought a very tough fight and had many of hurdles to jump I'm proud of him for never giving up. God just choose him to be his angel now. We have empty hearts and pain and sorrow however God has a awesome helper and Ralph can now be with his mom,grandma and sister and help watch over them and us. Fly high and with love my brother we will miss u greatly. I'm sry the differences came between us however my love for you never left. Love u my big brother ♥♥♥

“Great men are forged in fire. It is the privilege of lesser men to light the flame. Whatever the cost.” -- Doctor Who (John Hurt) preparing to use "The Moment", in "The Day of the Doctor" (23 November 2013).

Had Ralph and I remained in contact throughout our lives, we'd have most likely retained interests more similar than where we ended up. I'd have most likely enjoyed football and casinos, and I'm sure I'd have convinced him to enjoy Doctor Who. But even as a young boy, he was a wonderful person. My friends were carefully chosen and you had to be a very decent person to be on that list. Ralph was one of the few. So to honor the great person that he was, I feel that this citation from one of my greatest (fictional, of course) heroes describes Ralph Williams.

“ To my sweet niece, Karen Williams, and my sister, Bonnie Allison, and all the rest of the family and friends of Ralph.....I send my sympathies and prayers of Peace, while you are going through this difficult time. I never had the opportunity of meeting Ralph, though I was looking forward to it last year when he was offering to drive Bonnie here to Kentucky for a visit! Just from being Friends on Facebook, I felt how strong, brave, courageous, sensitive....AND funny!....he was, and was such a fighter with his pain that he never showed! God was indeed with him, and now has called him Home to rest and be free from his suffering! R.I.P. Ralph Williams!

“ I remember "Murphy". Ralph "Murphy" Williams who always put others first, himself last, and will always be remembered as a good person. For me, I remember a night in Chicago, when I was in need of some comic relief. . . Murph was a phone call away, and he served up hours of what I needed. Great night. . . thank you Murphy. . love ya brother.

“ I was told that there was a time Ralph was driving to work and the radio announcer said "if you can get your mother-in-law to say 'I love you' in so many seconds you would win $500!"
Ralph told Karen that he would have won if he could have remembered the phone number because he would have called me and said "Hi, mom! Just checking on you, gotta go". And I would have said "oh,ok, son, I love you!"
Even though he couldn't get to a phone and win, it meant a lot to me.
Ralph was a man of few words but he always told his family he loved them.
His famous words in the last few years of sickness were " I'm doing great!" Even though he was in a lot of pain!
I will miss my son in law of 20 years.
RiP, Ralph!

So one of my memories of Ralph was in High School Choir. We were singing songs from the musical "Hair" and Ralph and Dan Quine started moving around the room like Robots. The whole class erupted in laughter!! I think it was so spontaneous it caught everyone off guard. I don't recall ever seeing Ralph in a bad mood. He was always smiling, laughing and joking around.
